Valley of Shadow

"We will gain the inevitable triumph, so help us God." This, our late President's wish, became reality on August 14, 1945. It was realized through the efforts of American boys who suffered ignominious defeats, who endured the tortures of concentration camps, who gave their lives that Democracy might continue.

For over three years the war was marked with doubt, hardship and grief. The fourth year, however, found the indomitable spirit of our boys rewarded with overwhelming victory on both the European and Pacific battle fronts.

In this issue we wish to commemorate the many memorable events in which these boys took part and to cast a forward look into the future to which they are coming home, all the while giving thanks to Almighty God for the Peace that envelopes the world today.

GLEN-NOR SALUTES

J.R. Hoffman

The scourge of war finally having passed, Glen-Nor extends a warm welcome home to the faculty members she gave to her country's service.

Home from the Navy are Lieutenant (j.g.) Edgar E. Richards, Lieutenant Commander Francis Hoffman, and Storekeeper First Class A. Jackson Earley. Mr. Richards has returned to take up his new duties as Assistant Principal, having been elected to that post in January; Mr. Hoffman to his former position as Director of Physical Education; and Mr. Earley to his job in the Commercial department.

Expected soon from the Army as we go to press are Mr. Ivan W. LeFevre and Mr. Curt Reiman, both of whom are serving as captains. It is presumed that Mr. LeFevre will return to his former duties in the Social Studies department, while Mr. Reiman will again teach Physical Education and Science.

To these five teachers who proved their devotion to the noble cause that "government of the people, by the people, for the people shall not perish from the earth," the Senior Class of 1946 wishes to dedicate this year's Annual.

LT. Commander Hoffman

Captain LeFevre

OUR STRATEGISTS

Good strategy is an essential to winning battles. As in world conflicts, schools function best under competent leadership. We are proud that we Seniors of '46 have had the privilege of serving under men and women who have looked after our welfare in every way possible.

SCHOOL BOARD

Reading from left to right: Otto E. Sandberger, J. Lewis Ricker, Mrs. Helen Thomas, Weston C. Overholt, Arthur L. Reeser, W. W. Rust, J. Stewart Hebden, Mrs. M. C. Kiehl, W. A. Love, Howard Hill, J. Laufer.

On April 12, 1945, Franklin Delano Roosevelt passed on to the great World Beyond, and Vice-President Harry Truman assumed the enormous task of Commander-in-Chief. Glen-Nor likewise has had a change in administration. With the resignation of Mr. J. Milton Rossing because of illness last October, another capable administrator, Mr. Russell E. Bamberger, became our guide. Although we regret the loss of a very capable principal, we feel that we have gained an equally efficient leader in Mr. Bamberger who, having served as a Science teacher for over twenty years, knows Glen-Nor very well.

RUSSELL E. BAMBERGER, Principal

OUR LEADERS

Forward, march! Hup, two, three, four; hup, two, three, four! Yes, we've been marching — marching forward to the day when we'll all take our places in the front lines of life. The going has been tough at times, mighty tough, but we've had some excellent officers whose kindly guidance has helped us on. A vote of gratitude to Glen-Nor's faculty!

¿Que es la hora? This is one question that the first year Spanish class is not wondering about as evidenced by the expressions on their faces.

SENIORS

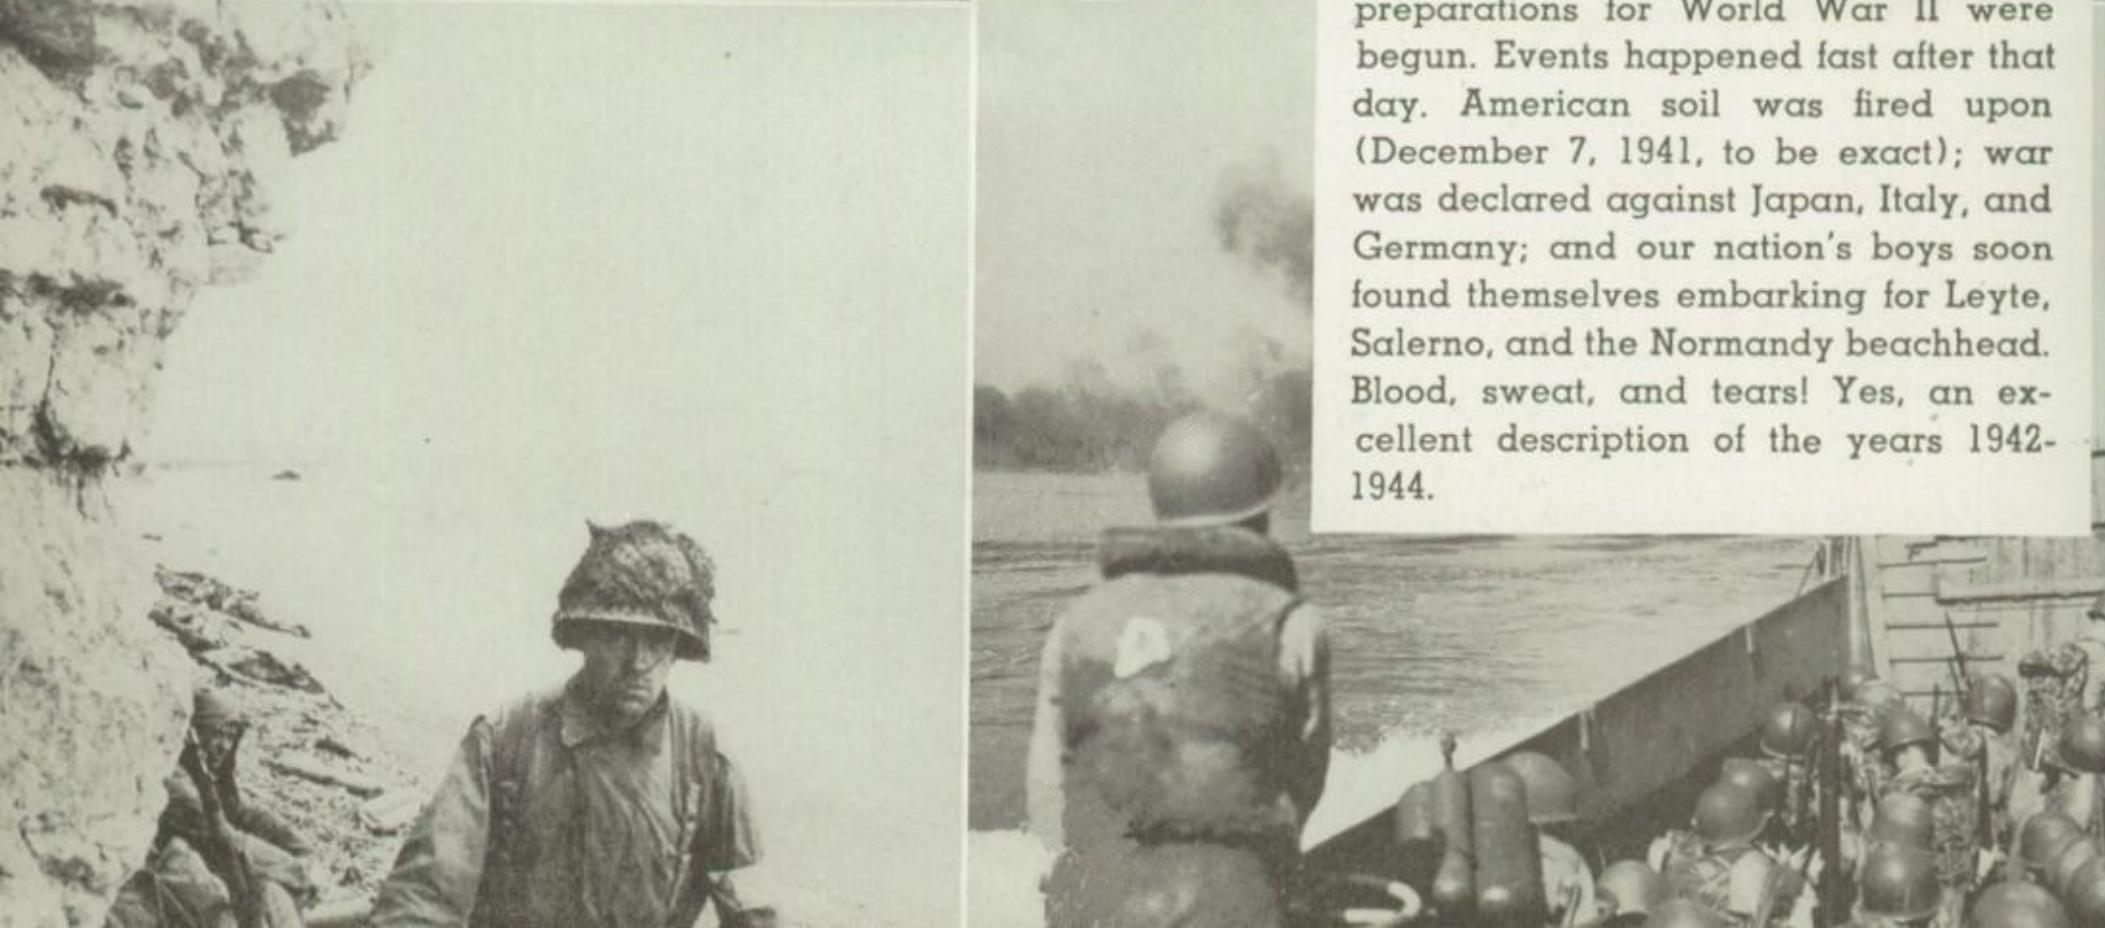

"Grant us grace fearlessly to contend against evil, and to make no peace with oppression; and, that we may reverently use our freedom, help us to employ it in the maintenance of justice among men and nations."

A Prayer for Social Justice from the Book of Common Prayer

With the drawing of the first capsule, October 29, 1940, in the National Lottery for Selective Service Registrants, preparations for World War II were begun. Events happened fast after that day. American soil was fired upon (December 7, 1941, to be exact); war was declared against Japan, Italy, and Germany; and our nation's boys soon found themselves embarking for Leyte, Salerno, and the Normandy beachhead. Blood, sweat, and tears! Yes, an excellent description of the years 1942-1944.

FRED ANDERSON

113 Garfield Avenue

NORWOOD, PENNA.

The part of Michael, good natured helper, in the Senior Play, fitted our curly-haired Fred perfectly and made him famous throughout the school. Well-known, too, was his cat, Joseph, which had been a subject of class conversation for several years.

ROY ASSELL

285 Winona Avenue

NORWOOD, PENNA.

As vice-president of the Senior Class, an outstanding figure on the basketball court, and an active member of the Hi-Y, Roy was a busy person. You could always rely on his traditional good humor in class and out. He is sure to be successful!

PHYLLIS BAMBERGER

103 Sylvan Avenue

NORWOOD, PENNA.

Sweetness of character, sincerity of manner, a friendly smile—combine all of these and you have Phyllis. Yes, indeed, the Color Guard, the "Annual" staff, and the National Honor Society will have to search far for "Phyl's" successor next fall.

*Best wishes in everything you do. See you around, I hope.
Joan*

JOAN BARBER

545 Ashland Avenue

FOLCROFT, PENNA.

"How to win friends and influence people" is Joan's special secret. Whether playing varsity hockey or basketball, or just talking among friends, that sparkling laugh was evident. Many a dull moment has certainly been lightened by her antics.

DONALD BASNER

123 Isabel Avenue

GLENOLDEN, PENNA.

"Anyone want to talk about horses?" Whenever that question was asked, Don was sure to be around. He was especially glad to tell you about his own. We knew in spite of his natural quietness that his grin spoke for him better than words.

ROBERT BLAIR

203 Harrison Avenue

NORWOOD, PENNA.

Snakes, mice, and birds—these were the key-notes of Bob's vocabulary. He found time to manage the basketball team, work for the "Annual," and go hunting too. No one has ever seen the top of Bob's head, for he stands a good six-foot-two.

HELEN BONSALL

340 N. Scott Avenue

GLENOLDEN, PENNA.

Helen, noted for her red hair, has acted both as Student Council member and basketball star. An expert saleswoman, she sold hot dogs and candy at the football games. Helen's spirit of forgiving and forgetting is one of her special traits.

SAMUEL BONSALL

629 Seneca Avenue

NORWOOD, PENNA.

Sam's ability at climbing roofs gave him a good perspective on the rest of the world. His ability was not limited, for he was a stellar basketball player. He was numbered among the boys who could hardly wait for Business Math class to begin.

EUNICE BRADLEY

241 Leon Avenue

NORWOOD, PENNA.

As the governess in the Senior Play, Eunice was to be commended. Still ringing in our ears are the Latin expressions she would quote going down the hall and the recitations of poetry she would render. She will be a great orator one day!

DONALD BROGAN

609 Sharpe Avenue

GLENOLDEN, PENNA.

Many a class would have been tiresome if it hadn't been for Don. He kept everyone chuckling. But when he answered a question, all was quiet, for he seemed to know something about everything. His handknit sweaters and curly hair were the envy of his comrades.

GORDON BURGETT

310 Welcome Avenue

NORWOOD, PENNA.

Gordie may have been the smallest, but not the meekest Senior. Although he took a good ribbing for his size, he threw it off with a good-natured answer. An active member in the Hi-Y, he was always the first to suggest Gym Night. A rooter? One of our most loyal.

OLIVE CAREY

324 N. Llanwellyn Avenue GLENOLDEN, PENNA.

When you see a big dimple dancing along, look behind it and see Ollie. Being custodian of both hockey and basketball, and being in the Glee Club kept her busy, but not enough to refrain from correcting you if you called her "Olive."

MARY ANN COGGIN

402 Trites Avenue

NORWOOD, PENNA.

Although a newcomer at Glen-Nor this year, Mary Ann entered into the spirit of the school without hesitation. Her friendliness made her welcome everywhere. Her selling of hot dogs and candy boosted our class treasury, for which we say, "Thanks."

BETTY JAYNE DAVIS

90 N. Elmwood Avenue

FOLCROFT, PENNA.

The job of carrying the American flag down the field was B. J.'s. All eyes followed this trim miss as she marched, holding that standard high. All eyes followed her, too, on Friday nights when she could be found "tripping the light fantastic."

JEAN DAVISON

515 Urban Avenue

GLENOLDEN, PENNA.

Coming from a little town in New York was no draw-back to Jean. Playing on the hockey squad, working on the program committee for Girl Reserves, singing with the Glee Club—all were among her activities. Never a dull moment with her around!

GENEVIEVE DEMPSEY

323 Llanwellyn Avenue

GLENOLDEN, PENNA.

As a defensive player in hockey and an offensive player in basketball, Gene was always at her best. With energy still to spare, she lent the orchestra lots of verve when she beat the drums. Pep rallies would certainly have missed her presence.

CORRINE DENT

1107 Ashland Avenue

FOLCROFT, PENNA.

Student Council and Glee Club activities were a part of this swell-natured girl's days at Glen-Nor. Many of us would pause to listen to her singing a hit tune—she knew them all. A whiz in shorthand, she's a girl with a future.

Dear Ruth, with all my love & good
Best wishes to a sweet girl.
for the future & noble pool.
Elizabeth Dickinson

ELIZABETH DICKINSON
109 Ashland Avenue GLENOLDEN, PENNA.
Libby, a genius in everything she undertakes.

ELIZABETH DICKINSON

109 Ashland Avenue

GLENOLDEN, PENNA.

Libby, a genius in everything she undertakes, was also successful in her performance as the maid in the Senior Play. Singing in the Glee Club, pouring forth her knowledge in French, and as class editor of the "Annual," she won the admiration of all.

HARRY DOUGHERTY

109 Chester Pike

NORWOOD, PENNA.

"Doc" was kept busy delivering mail at Christmas. (Maybe that is how he got his long legs.) He also found time to play basketball, which is his favorite sport. "Doc" could always be counted on to contribute some interesting remarks in all his classes.

VIVIAN DOWNS

14 Ridgeway Avenue

NORWOOD, PENNA.

Vivian, although one of the smallest girls in the class, was one of the liveliest. If you could not have found her on the dance floor, you would have found this pretty miss at the roller skating rink. Any spare time was spent at sorority meets.

ANN MARY DUNNE

310 Urban Avenue

NORWOOD, PENNA.

There's an attraction on the color guard and "Nancy" is it. Her long black hair and pleasing personality are her special traits. Meetings of the Alpha Gamma Phi made up her Monday evenings. "Nancy's" monitorial work has been very beneficial to the Student Council and has also made her a well-known Senior among the younger students.

PAUL FOWLE

41 East Logan Avenue

GLENOLDEN, PENNA.

Paul's pleasing personality and witty remarks made him a class favorite. He was a faithful worker in every endeavor, whether as former class president, Hi-Y program chairman, or member of the "Annual" Staff. His ties were especially outstanding.

CHARLES FRASSONI

307 South Elmwood Avenue GLENOLDEN, PENNA.

Of a dual personality, Charles' wit and soberness made him a standout. Charles was numbered among the boys who braved all sorts of weather to play football. Wift—gone! We didn't have to look. We knew it was Charles on Harvey's much-loved motorcycle.

EUGENE FROST

2 North MacDade Boulevard GLENOLDEN, PENNA.

Although one of the quietest boys, he would have been the undisputed winner in any spitball contest. A willing worker, he was a big help with the Senior Play scenery and the transporting of Pepsi. Caring for his horse at Dievak's kept him busy after three.

ALYSE FUTTY

564 Chester Pike

NORWOOD, PENNA.

Alyse, one of the "Annual's" industrious typists, was a well-liked girl. Her pretty hair-do's and friendly spirit were outstanding. Dancing was her favorite hobby and the Air Corps her favorite service. You could always depend upon receiving a broad smile when you spoke to her.

ROBERT GILLARD

106 Rambler Road

GLENOLDEN, PENNA.

With his return to Glen-Nor this year, "Bob's" grin and well-rounded personality made him more popular than ever. His intelligence as shown in Problems of Democracy won him fame. We are sure "Bob" will be successful in whatever he undertakes.

WAYNE GRANT

117 Garfield Avenue

NORWOOD, PENNA.

Alf's interests are as varied as the days of the year. His performance in the Senior Play made it the success it was. His remarks in class were collectors' items. Everyone will always like Wayne for his friendly manner. We can understand why he was elected treasurer of Hi-Y.

DONALD GRIFFITH

400 South Scott Avenue

GLENOLDEN, PENNA.

Long known as a nature enthusiast, "Don" was another of the class' hunters. His activities did not stop here because during the winter months he helped Mr. Knoll with the basketball team. "Don" was always willing to help his class in any problem.

DORA GRUBB

35 East Knowles Avenue GLENOLDEN, PENNA.

As snapshot editor of the "Annual," "Dorie" could be found at the oddest times and places taking pictures. In spite of her seemingly perpetual flurry, she had time to sing with the Glee Club and perform as Dolly in the Senior Play. Full of cheer? But yes!

JANE HAEBERLE

113 North Wells Avenue GLENOLDEN, PENNA.

Calling commands while marching with the Color Guard was only one of Janie's activities. As a Junior she assisted the business manager of the "Annual" and acted as a traffic monitor. In every job undertaken she has proven a steady and efficient worker.

CAROLYN HANNA

320 Welcome Avenue NORWOOD, PENNA.

Carolyn's heart lies in the direction of the hockey field all year 'round. As a capable goalie she served Glen-Nor for two years. The movies, too, hold "Car's" interest. In fact, if you ever are looking for her, just take a peek in the Manor Theatre.

DONALD HORNBERGER

102 Urban Avenue NORWOOD, PENNA.

You don't have to be big to be popular, as proven by "Hornet." His outstanding playing on the gridiron made him famous. He also found time to play basketball and to be president of the A.A. His wisecracks have kept many commercials wide awake.

MARGARET JOHNSON

124 Printz Avenue

NORWOOD, PENNA.

"Peg," popular with the Senior class, has displayed ability in hockey and as photography editor of the "Annual." Her cute smile was always accompanied by a pair of laughing eyes. We join her in hoping her modeling dreams come true.

J. BARTON KRAMER

563 Seneca Avenue

NORWOOD, PENNA.

This year's Senior Play owes its success partly to the efforts of "J. B." His duties as monitor have made him outstanding among the underclassmen. As a regular attendant of the Hi-Y, he could be found every Monday night in Room 9.

SHIRLEY KRAMER

624 Delaware Avenue

NORWOOD, PENNA.

With her blonde hair and her friendly spirit, Shirley has distinguished herself in basketball especially. When she joined the Glee Club, that organization obtained another incentive for others to belong. Her unobtrusive nature is one of her assets.

ROBERT KUCKER

27 Rambler Road

GLENOLDEN, PENNA.

Returning to us in his Junior year, "Bob's" personality soon made him a class favorite. Glen-Nor doesn't have track, but for speedy running it is a toss-up between "Porky" Renz and our "Bob." Sporting a green De Soto he attended Hi-Y, in which his presence was a boost to every program.

RUSSEL LOCKBAUM

218 Cleveland Avenue

NORWOOD, PENNA.

Although usually quiet, "Ruper" was anything but in some class—gym, for instance, in which he was always the charging football lineman. Sadly missed will be his car, which became famous. Daily for two years it carried the same crew to G. N. H.

BETTY MARRA

415 MacDade Boulevard

GLENOLDEN, PENNA.

Betty is one of the many Seniors this year who is going to make her life career—housekeeping. Her social activities have been numerous and her spirit of friendship has been something to admire. She will always be remembered by her classmates for her happy-go-lucky air.

MARGUERITE MARSHALL

108 North Chester Pike

GLENOLDEN, PENNA.

Marguerite with her basketball performances and her Glee Club appearances, was well-known around school. She enjoys typing and just "loves" to drive down the middle of the road in the family car. Her hobby is making people hysterical by her unexpected outbursts.

MARY McGOWAN

508 Swarthmore Avenue

RIDLEY PARK, PENNA.

As a business woman, an actress, a morale up-lifter, Mary was tops. Besides serving as business manager of the "Annual," she played the part of Celia in the Senior Play. Glen-Nor's teams will especially miss her earnest cheerleading them to victory.

EDWARD McMANAMY

427 Custer Avenue

GLENOLDEN, PENNA.

Operating a store and following Glen-Nor Sports kept "Ed" the busiest boy in the Senior Class. Probably the best Phils' rooter in Pennsylvania, "Ed" was sure that every year they would win the pennant. The boys he ate with will remember "Ed" for the jokes he told.

JOHN McLAUGHLIN

46 East Knowles Avenue GLENOLDEN, PENNA.

This jitterbug divided his time between Glen-Nor and Ridley Township. John was the one we went to see when we wanted to know the latest dance step. His black Ford could certainly pack in the passengers. All of us at some time found that out. Your guess how!

GEORGE McWILLIAMS

631 Delaware Avenue

NORWOOD, PENNA.

"Bud," a willing worker, found no task too large to perform for his class. Varsity football took up plenty of his time, but Hi-Y came in for a share, too. His friendly smile made him everyone's friend. His favorite period—English, of course.

PATRICIA MONTGOMERY

53 Cleveland Avenue

NORWOOD, PENNA.

The charm of this girl was shared with all who knew her. Her beautiful hair sparkled atop her head, while her dimpled smile continually revealed her friendliness. The Glee Club inherited her singing voice, while the Marines inherited her time.

MARION MULLER

41 West Winona Avenue

NORWOOD, PENNA.

A tiny Senior, but one who could always be heard, was Marion. Her charming personality and peppy chatter brightened our days. As a typist for the "Annual," she worked quietly and rapidly. Some office will benefit no end by her presence.

MARY LOU MURPHY

207 West Garfield Avenue

GLENOLDEN, PENNA.

"Murph's" blond hair attracted many approving glances at the games as she cheered her loudest and peppiest. A recognized authority on grammar, she was often consulted by her classmates. For smoothness, "Murph" really had it on the dance floor.

JUNE NATALE

121 East Cooke Avenue

GLENOLDEN, PENNA.

Although one of the smallest, June made up for lack of size in energy. This year found her doing her share of the Senior write-ups, selling candy, prompting the Senior Play, and being active on Student Council. Would we had her report card, too!

ELEANOR OLSEN

513 Tatnall Avenue

GLENOLDEN, PENNA.

"Twin" was a faithful attendant at the Parker Theatre. She was often found at the "Shop" also. Her antics at the Monday night meetings of the Alpha Gamma Phi Sorority kept her fellow members in stitches.

EVAN PATTERSON

102 Rambler Road

GLENOLDEN, PENNA.

It sounded like Harry James in the auditorium, but all Glen-Nor knew it was "Pete." His participation in the Swing Band and Orchestra kept him stepping. "Pete" could argue on any subject (and he was usually right). He too played football—come January or June.

JAMES PEIFER

35 West Winona Avenue NORWOOD, PENNA.

"J. C." the father in the Senior Play, was an active member of the Band, giving out with his hot licks on the tuba. Spring always found him behind the home plate shouting encouragement to his fellow teammates on the diamond. Oh, yes, Jim was also class printer.

BARBARA PIERCE

303 Urban Avenue

NORWOOD, PENNA.

"Babs" started her Senior year with two things—one old, one new—both sparkling. That smile and that diamond won the admiration of her class. Exceedingly active, "Babs" was especially outstanding as hockey manager and the "Annual's" assistant editor.

GLORIA POLIDORO

138 West Ridley Avenue NORWOOD, PENNA.

Gloria hailed from Brooklyn as a Soph. Friday nights saw her whirling around the dance floor in her own individual style, as she tried out the many new dance steps she knew. Her quiet manner and friendly smile won her many friends.

Dear Ruth,
Good Luck
in a new job
Babs

LORRAINE POPE

17 South Woodland Avenue GLENOLDEN, PENNA.

"Quiet as a mouse" best described Lorraine, except when she was in the Glee Club or cheering along with her friends at the pep meetings. Her neatness was the envy of all. As for her love of dancing—was there ever a Friday night missed?

JEAN PRICE

7 Park Avenue NORWOOD, PENNA.

That flashy inner on the hockey field was none other than Jean. Swift attacks of that high scorer left many an opponent behind. Jean was equally at home whether on the dance floor, at Girl Reserves or in the Glee Club.

DOROTHY REDDINGTON

32 Lamont Avenue GLENOLDEN, PENNA.

Presiding over Girl Reserves, co-captaining the Cheerleaders, managing the Senior Finances were "Dot's" main worries. Pep plus! Capability personified! Yes, these characterized D.R. Somewhere along the line she earned the name "Nicky." Just ask B. Blair why.

JACK REID

121 Printz Avenue NORWOOD, PENNA.

Like to talk about snakes or birds? If you did, you were a friend of Jack's. Ever since ninth grade his specimens were a major part of science courses. Because of his favorite saying, he will not be soon forgotten. (It was never a favorite with the teachers.)

HARRY RENZ

524 Mohawk Avenue

NORWOOD, PENNA.

"Pork" was our all-around boy this year. Fall found him busy with the pigskin; winter saw him on the basketball court where he helped roll up the score; and spring attracted him to the diamond. As president of the Hi-Y, "Pork" kept the boys up to par.

ELSIE SELBY

15 East Ashland Avenue GLENOLDEN, PENNA.

Elsie was seemingly more often seen than heard. Her best friends knew differently. Ask anyone in the Senior Play whose prompting helped him out of many a tight place. She kept thin managing basketball and keeping watch over the monitors.

ISABEL STAINSBY

402 Ridley Avenue

NORWOOD, PENNA.

Unlimited energy was Izzie's secret. One of "Ziggy's" trumpet-tooters and property-collector for the Senior Play, she also served on the hockey team and in numerous other capacities. For a job well done, we knew we could always count on Isabel.

DORIS STEGMULLER

30 Lamont Avenue GLENOLDEN, PENNA.

A popular senior, "Dos" was busy all day long. A varsity hockey player for three years and a seasoned basketball player, she also found time to be co-captain of the Cheerleaders, a member of the Glee Club and a Girl Reserve. Time left to dance? But, yes!

WINIFRED STETZ

38 South Llanwellyn Avenue GLENOLDEN, PENNA.

In spite of "Winnie's" band and monitorial duties, she had time to keep up her good marks. Her quiet, but pleasant, manner endeared her to all. Quiet? Yes, unless you heard her telling of her ambition to be an accountant, or "cracking" some of those "corny" jokes.

MARION STOLTZ

289 East Winona Avenue NORWOOD, PENNA.

Holding the strings on the money bag of the Alpha Gamma Phi Sorority was one of Marian's jobs. In her free moments she was often found at the Great Leopard Skating Rink. Other moments she spent embroidering for her hope chest.

VIRGINIA TAYLOR

271 Seminole Avenue

NORWOOD, PENNA.

"Ginny's" complexion was the envy of her classmates. She excelled in gym work and attracted many admiring glances with her smooth jitterbugging and skating. Her duties as president of the Alpha Gamma Phi Sorority kept her busy every other Monday night.

JEAN TEETSEL

426 Andrews Avenue

GLENOLDEN, PENNA.

That red hair was the tell-tale key to Jean's personality. One minute she astounded us by answering the most difficult math problems; at another she sent us into gales of laughter. Little wonder she was chosen to be hockey captain! She was really a standout!

FRANCES THOMPSON

405 Crotzer Avenue

FOLCROFT, PENNA.

Coming from Folcroft as a Soph., "Fran" stepped right into the swing of things. She proved herself outstanding in hockey and basketball when she gave up the "sax" as a Senior. A source of a great deal of merriment in class, she dismayed all.

VIRGINIA TORRENS

201 Glenolden Avenue

GLENOLDEN, PENNA.

"Ginner" was known as "the little girl with the deep voice." Her lack of size well earned her the title of littlest Senior. Those side remarks were famous for their brightening effect. The "C" section especially benefited by her presence.

JEAN TORRICELLAS

416 Custer Avenue

GLENOLDEN, PENNA.

In the Senior Play, "Tar-Baby" took the part of a flashy soda-jerk. In spite of her being a little wobbly on her spike heels, she created a very convincing character. Famous for her care-free smile and happy-go-luckiness, she just "loved" dancing.

LOIS TROUT

210 Cleveland Avenue

NORWOOD, PENNA.

When Lois steps out on the dance floor, the "joint" really starts jumping. As good at skating as she is at jitterbugging, the rink finds her a regular attendant. Her beautifully-kept fingernails drew the praise of all the girls.

MARNA WAGNER

11 North Wells Avenue

GLENOLDEN, PENNA.

"Happy-go-lucky" best describes Marna's attitude towards life. Her winning smile helped her greatly in selling candy and hot dogs at the games. In her spare time she kept up on her dancing.

HARVEY WALTERSDORF

220 Chester Pike

NORWOOD, PENNA.

The quietest boy, perhaps, but still well known! His outstanding possession was his motorcycle on which he roamed the streets of Norwood and Glenolden at 'most any hour. Every Friday night saw "Harv" in the gym. Doing what? Dancing, of course!

W. TOM WARD

308 North Scott Avenue

GLENOLDEN, PENNA.

Is the sun coming up in the East? No, it's our President "Mort." His red face was the trademark of the Senior class. To start a friendship with him all you had to do was tell him the Army was the best team in the world. He is certain to be a hit anywhere, anytime.

MATILDA WARNER

125 East Glenolden Avenue

GLENOLDEN, PENNA.

In the fall, Tillie was seen flashing up and down the hockey field backing up her team as center half. Her low giggle and turned-up nose won her lots of friends. Her presence at the Friday night dances was taken for granted by regular attenders.

BARBARA WEAVER

Ashland Avenue

SECANE, PENNA.

Orchids to Barbara for a grand job of editor-in-chief of the "Annual." One of the few to be accepted for National Honor Society in her Junior year, she was also a member of Girl Reserves and treasurer of Student Council. Graciously charming?

MADOLYN WELFLEY

103 North Wells Avenue GLENOLDEN, PENNA.

Madge was a regular attendant at the Great Leopard Skating Rink, where she spent many happy hours on wheels. Alternate Monday nights found her participating in the Alpha Gamma Phi Sorority meetings. "Madge's" smile won and will win her lots of friends.

DONALD MACAW

Leon Avenue

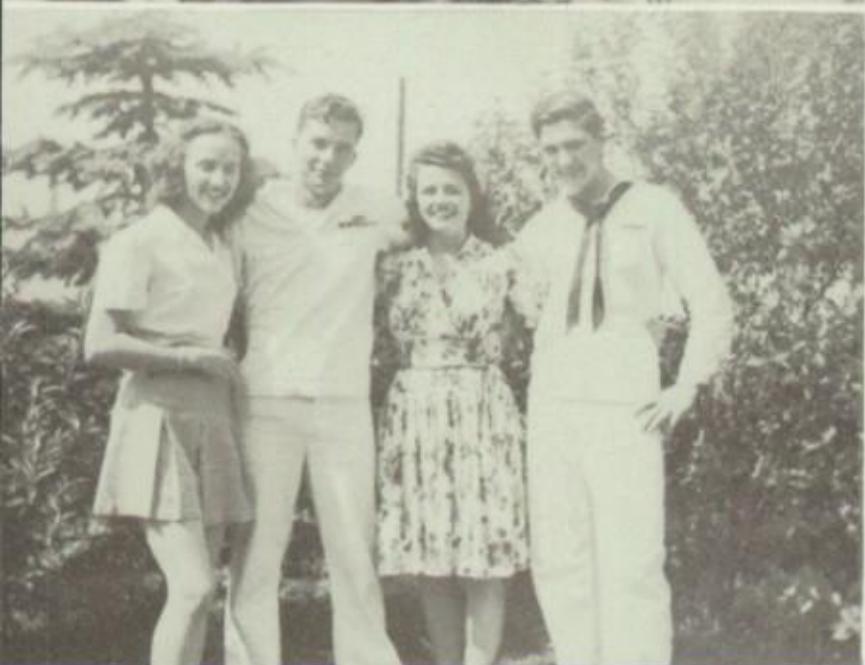

NORWOOD, PA.

Begorra, and 'tis a fine Irish lad we have in our class this year! Flying over from the North of Ireland on a Pan-American Clipper, Donald arrived at Glen-Nor a few days before the traditional St. Patrick's day. This scholarly Irishman with his brogue and friendly smile has related many stories of his former home in Ireland to his new American friends.

CLASS OF '46

The armed forces had their show. Remember "This Is the Army"? So did Glen-Nor High School. Remember that hilarious romantic tangle, "The Odd-Job Man," given back there November ninth by the Senior Class? Thanks again, Wayne. You really stole the spotlight with your ad-libbing and provided us with one uproarious evening. To the rest of the cast, led by Fred Anderson and Mary McGowan, and to Miss Doris Harrison, whose patient coaching won't be forgotten, sincerest appreciation also.

CURTAIN GOING UP

STOMPIN' AT THE PROM

We Peek

After being away from the United States for a period of six years on a trip to the British Isles to see my relatives whom I'd never seen, one of the things I wanted to do was familiarize myself with the doings of my friends with whom I had lost contact.

I started in New York as that was where I had left my job of modeling. As I went through Radio City, I couldn't help remembering my senior trip. We certainly had a grand time that day. I went to see the leading play in the city and was astonished to see Fred Anderson and Eunice Bradley taking the leading parts. And what do you think Eunice's role was? Right—Portia. As I recall, those two were always drama-minded in school. I got a chance to talk to them during intermission. We certainly talked over the good old days and the doings of my classmates back thar' in good old '46. My, some of them have really come up in the world.

I wasn't surprised to hear that Roy Assell and Joan Barber are in the Ringling Bros. Circus. They always made everyone go into gales of laughter while in school. Gordie Burgett is performing with them too as the perfect midget of the Atomic Era. Boy, they really have the life. As I went on asking questions, Mary McGowan and Vivian Downs strolled in. Mary is in a Broadway show and "Viv" is a skater at Rockefeller Center. I got the latest on Mary Lou Murphy. My goodness, she's still making tommie coats. This time it's for wee little Murph and Jack, Jr. It might seem funny but "Viv" still goes to sorority meetings as often as possible. Those girls really have gotten around. Madolyn Welfley is a hairdresser and has a shop of her own. She always could make some smooth looking waves along with Carolyn Hanna who is working with Madolyn during her time off from playing goalie for the All-American girls' hockey team. Virginia Taylor has a sewing shop and is giving lessons in dressmaking. I always admired Virginia's neat sewing. Lois Trout and Marion Stoltz are instructors at the well-known Leopard Skating Rink. Nancy Dunne is a U.S.O. canteen head in Times Square. I wonder what Nan would be doing if the Conscription Bill hadn't been passed by Congress. It was a wonderful idea to keep the U.S.O.'s open for entertainment. Evan Patterson and Jim Peifer are members of the band for the boys. I guess Pete is trying to be a second Harry James and Jim is doing his best as leader. Corrine Dent takes her part and is using her lovely voice as the vocalist, while Gloria Polidoro has a sensational dance act along with John McLaughlin. It seems the class is really sticking together. After a long walk I departed to get something to eat.

As I was ready to order at the soda fountain, I looked up and saw Bob Gillard. Much to my surprise, he owned the drug store. I couldn't help but remember how he used to slave in the local drug store during his senior year. After eating a swell snack we got talking about old times and some more pals. Bob Kucker's a singer and is really having loads of fame making records. Sort of reminds me of Frankie Sinatra. I wonder if the bobby-soxers are going after Bobbie? It seems fantastic that Tillie Warner has a large interest in the record company. In fact, she owns the firm for which Bob sings. Tillie always did spend most of her allowance in recordings. I bet she still gives sales talks on Buicks. As it was getting late I rushed to the street and hailed a taxi to go to my hotel. As I paid my fare, I recognized the driver as Russ Lockbaum. How could I have missed him. He's still driving Hudsons and still has that familiar way of saying, "Wanna ride?"

After getting the key to my room, I sat down in a chair to relax for a while. I pulled over a magazine and started to read. Much to my astonishment I saw in it a picture of Pat Montgomery. She was a model for the Dreene shampoo ad. She still has those lovely natural curls and cute dimples. I noticed under Pat's picture Dora Grubb's name as photographer. I wonder if Dora has changed much since she was in school. As I went on through the book I came across a joke by Harry Dougherty and illustrated by Wayne Grant. Oh, me, how well I remember Doc's corny jokes in English class and Wayne's cartoons all over my notebooks. As I closed the magazine, I picked up a book that was lying there. Was I surprised to find that it was published by the Campus Publishing Co. and that Bob Blair was now the company's president. Bob really went places with his commercial experience and original ideas of journalism. I turned on the radio and was listening to some music when Ed McManamy broke in as announcer, followed by Eleanor Olsen as transcription reader. It suddenly dawned on me that I must call in order to get my plane reservation to Philadelphia. I was able to talk to Bud McWilliams, now a discharged naval air corps pilot who is about to return to aeronautical engineering. After a long confab about the local news, he transferred me to Elsie Selby, an airline hostess, whose affiliations might help me get a reservation. After all her trouble, she couldn't help me. So after a long night's sleep, I boarded my train for Philly. When I arrived I decided to do some shopping. I heard Babs Pierce was working at Gimbel's, so I looked her up. She was still Ellis Gimbel's favorite salesgirl along with Alyse Fatty who always had lots of sales ability.

Babs had arranged to have Phyl Bamberger meet her for lunch; so we three musketeers went to eat. I really did get the lowdown on some more classmates. Phyl is planning to buy some more sailor's dungarees. Surprising how her heart still belongs to the Navy. Babs told me Jean Davison and June Natale are nurses at Bryn Mawr Hospital and that Fran Thompson and Jean Dempsey are playing hockey for the Cricket Club. That didn't surprise me at all, for I know those girls were born for those positions. But when I found out that Jean Teetsel was competing with Einstein at Penn and that Jack Reid was a zoologist there, I almost fainted. Everything about everyone was coming so fast that I had to stop the girls and tell them of my New York experiences. That started them again, however, for that reminded them that Ollie Carey was in charge of sports equipment at Saks Fifth Avenue Store and that Winnie Stetz was playing her clarinet in an all-girl orchestra. This really seemed like old times to talk about our old pals. Phyl told me that Pork Renz and Don Hornberger were playing at Shibe Park with the Eagles and that a regular onlooker at the game was a blonde. Shirley Kramer still has a guard at heart along with Dos Stegmuller who adores the back on the team. It's a rumor that Dos is trying to raise ten other football players. Phyl gave me all the latest on Glen-Nor's activities. The principal is still a close friend of hers. I wasn't surprised to learn that Jane Haeberle is the office secretary and that at this time a new roof is being put on the school by Sam Bonsall. I might have known that some of the class would return to teach. Marna Wagner has charge of Room 19, the bookkeeping room, and Ginner Torrens has the pleasure(?) of hearing the tapping of typewriters all day long in Room 18. After gabbing and gabbing, we brought our luncheon to a close. We went home on the same train and met Helen Bonsall who had played a tough basketball game that afternoon and was quite tired like the rest of us.

When I got home I picked up the ever popular Chester Times and read the Society page. I saw that Betty Jayne Davis had gotten married in a wedding gown made from ten yards of white silk. I glanced over an advertisement of the Four Horsemen. I happened to take a second look and saw Don Basner was the owner and Gene Frost was the horse-trainer. I was quite bowled over to see that Jean Torricellas was the writer of the lovelorn column and that Harvey Waltersdorf was renting out motorcycles by the hour. Just then the doorbell rang and I found Don Brogan at the door selling Fuller brushes. Glory be, I couldn't believe it. I asked him in and he told me that Tom Ward was now the popular local town dentist and that Paul Fowle was well on his way to becoming a second Judge

Into 1956

Hardy. This class of mine has certainly proved a jack of all trades. Don also told me that Lorraine Pope and Dot Reddington were working in the Bank. These gals both had had financial experience, so they were in their right jobs. It was good news to hear that Babs Weaver was a chemist at DuPont's. In school Babs was really bright in all her subjects, so I know she must be doing splendidly in her favorite work. After a long talk I ended buying a tooth brush from Don. He told me to expect Charles Frassoni around. Charles, it seems, is now an insurance salesman. Maybe it would be a good thing if Charles came soon with gals like Marge Marshall still cruising around. Come to think of it, that Ford certainly did get a workout with Marge at the wheel.

I got back to my paper and saw where there was going to be a horse auction and that Don Griffith was the auctioneer. I thought back on the time he used to imitate one of them. Whoever thought he'd end up being one! I read further that Isabel Stainsby was the Red Cross chairman. Oh, me, how she used to hound the kids of the class to bring in their patron money and to buy an "Annual." Isabel was really a good saleswoman, though. She'll do a good job, I know. So Jean Price is getting up a petition to tear down all Boomtown. She shouldn't have a hard time doing that. No one ever cared for that place anyway. I read also that Mary Ann Coggin moved back to West Chester again and is very happy. It says here that Elizabeth Dickinson is a dramatic arts teacher and has a studio in Philadelphia and that Barton Kramer is leading man at a play now on the stage at the Forrest. The paper just about ended my search when Phyl called to tell me Marion Muller is back at her old job at Western Union singing telegrams and that Bette Marra is still being a busy bee in her kitchen. After all this news I didn't feel that I had been away for so long after all.

"With malice toward none; with charity for all; with firmness in the right, as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on to finish the work we are in; to bind up the nation's wounds; to care for him who shall have borne the battle, and for his widow and orphan—to do all which may achieve and cherish a just and lasting peace among ourselves and with all nations."

Abraham Lincoln's Second Inaugural Address,
March 4, 1865

ACTIVITIES

The year 1945 was a momentous one for the world. It saw the death of Franklin Roosevelt and the inauguration of the new U. S. President Harry Truman; it ushered in a new age, the Atomic Era, with the invention of the atomic bomb at Oak Ridge, Tennessee, and the use of it on Hiroshima, Japan; it witnessed the fall of Germany and Japan and the return of peace to the earth; and it saw the groundwork laid for democratic government throughout the world at the San Francisco Conference. It was a year great with happiness, yet it was a year tinged with deepest grief, too.

MAINTAINING DEMOCRACY

The Dumbarton Oaks Conference has laid a vast and intricate framework for the democratic rule of the world by a United Nations Council in conjunction with a military and a judicial tribunal.

The plan set forth at this conference seems to be of a highly intelligent and practical nature for preserving World Peace. It remains, however, for future history to test its workability.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

Seated: B. Weaver, B. A. Reddington, J. Peifer, P. Richardson. Standing: B. Kramer, T. Carey.

Glen-Nor, likewise, has a definite plan of democratic government, a plan carried out by the Student Council under the direction of Miss Miriam Jones and Mrs. Madeline Egan. Consisting of two bodies, a senior and a junior student council, the group meets every two weeks to outline new laws and discuss stronger means of enforcing the old.

From these two groups are drawn monitors, whose duty it is to keep order and facilitate traffic in the halls during the passing of classes.

The Atlantic Charter drawn up by our late President Roosevelt and Former Prime Minister Churchill is famous for the Four Freedoms it set forth. Of these, one of the most important is Freedom of the Press. All can readily understand how essential this is during war; its retention, however, during peace, is an absolute requirement for the maintenance of democracy.

The Annual staff, while not in the same status as that of a large daily newspaper, nevertheless understands to a certain extent the meaning of this freedom. There is no compulsion on the part of the school board members or of the faculty to include certain material and exclude other information. There is no one telling the staff to whom the book must be dedicated. All in all, staff members can and will put forth the Annual they so desire.

This year, we are fortunate in having so many faithful and industrious workers, who earnestly helped to make the yearbook a success. Under the capable direction of Miss Creagmire, the editors and staff worked up until five o'clock nights on end, especially as they neared December 15th (subscription deadline) and January 22nd (editorial deadline). Fun? Yes, plenty of it! The editors do hope that each Glen-Norite will find this year's Annual one to treasure historically as well as one to enjoy.

FELLOWSHIP TOGETHER—

EXECUTIVE COUNCIL
President....Harry Renz
V. President...Roy Assell
Secretary.....Jim Dyson
Treasurer...Wayne Grant

One of the most talked about topics of the past year was the meeting in San Francisco of the United Nations Organization. Delegates from every part of the world attended this most important meeting, and laid out the proposition for peace—a proposition that included as its first corollary the harmony of men working together for the common good of all.

Under Mr. Fricker's sponsorship, the Hi-Y has been striving, not for World Peace, but to increase fellowship among boys and to create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community high standards of Christian character. Meetings led by Harry Renz took place in Room 9 every Monday night.

FIRST COROLLARY OF PEACE

With a list of accomplishments to be proud of during the war, the Girl Reserves are continuing their admirable work now that peace has come. Meeting faithfully under the guidance of Mrs. Wilhelmina Hess and a very capable group of officers, the girls have worked hard to make the organization a success.

THE NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

V.J. Day! This was a day America rejoiced to see. The aim she had continually striven for four years had been achieved. She had conquered her arch enemy—Japan. Hard work, yes, but very worthwhile.

The highest goal a Glen-Nor High School student can work for is membership in the National Honor Society. Qualifications for candidacy include high quality of scholarship, outstanding leadership in some phase of school life, a record of service to school, and maturity of character.

This year for the first time Sophomores will be admitted to membership. Up to five per cent of the class may become eligible. In Junior year another five per cent may become candidates, while an additional ten per cent may be elected as Seniors.

SENIOR HONOR SOCIETY

Left to right: H. Bonsall, B. Weaver, B. Pierce and P. Bamberger.

JUNIOR HONOR SOCIETY

Row 1: R. Brock, J. Kotoed, R. Bamberger, J. Crawford, R. Knoll, F. Sibelist, H. Oakes and D. Bonsall. Row 2: J. Mastellar, B. Plumb, B. Grubb, T. Corson, A. M. Mieky, P. Borton, M. L. Britt, J. Hitchner and J. Dugan. Row 3: R. Rex, D. Doub, H. Baker, R. Baer, N. Bailey, M. Aird, C. Dyson, A. Porterfield, A. McLaren and R. Gallagher.

THE QUILL AND SCROLL

World War II was reported fully and excellently by foreign correspondents whose only fear was that they might not be able to get their stories through. For the numerous instances of skilled, truthful reporting, many of these writers were rewarded with press awards and government citations.

To recognize a job well done on the Annual staff, certain students each year are recommended by the adviser for membership in the Quill and Scroll, an international honorary society for high school journalists. Applicants must also be within the upper third of the class scholastically, and be of senior or junior standing.

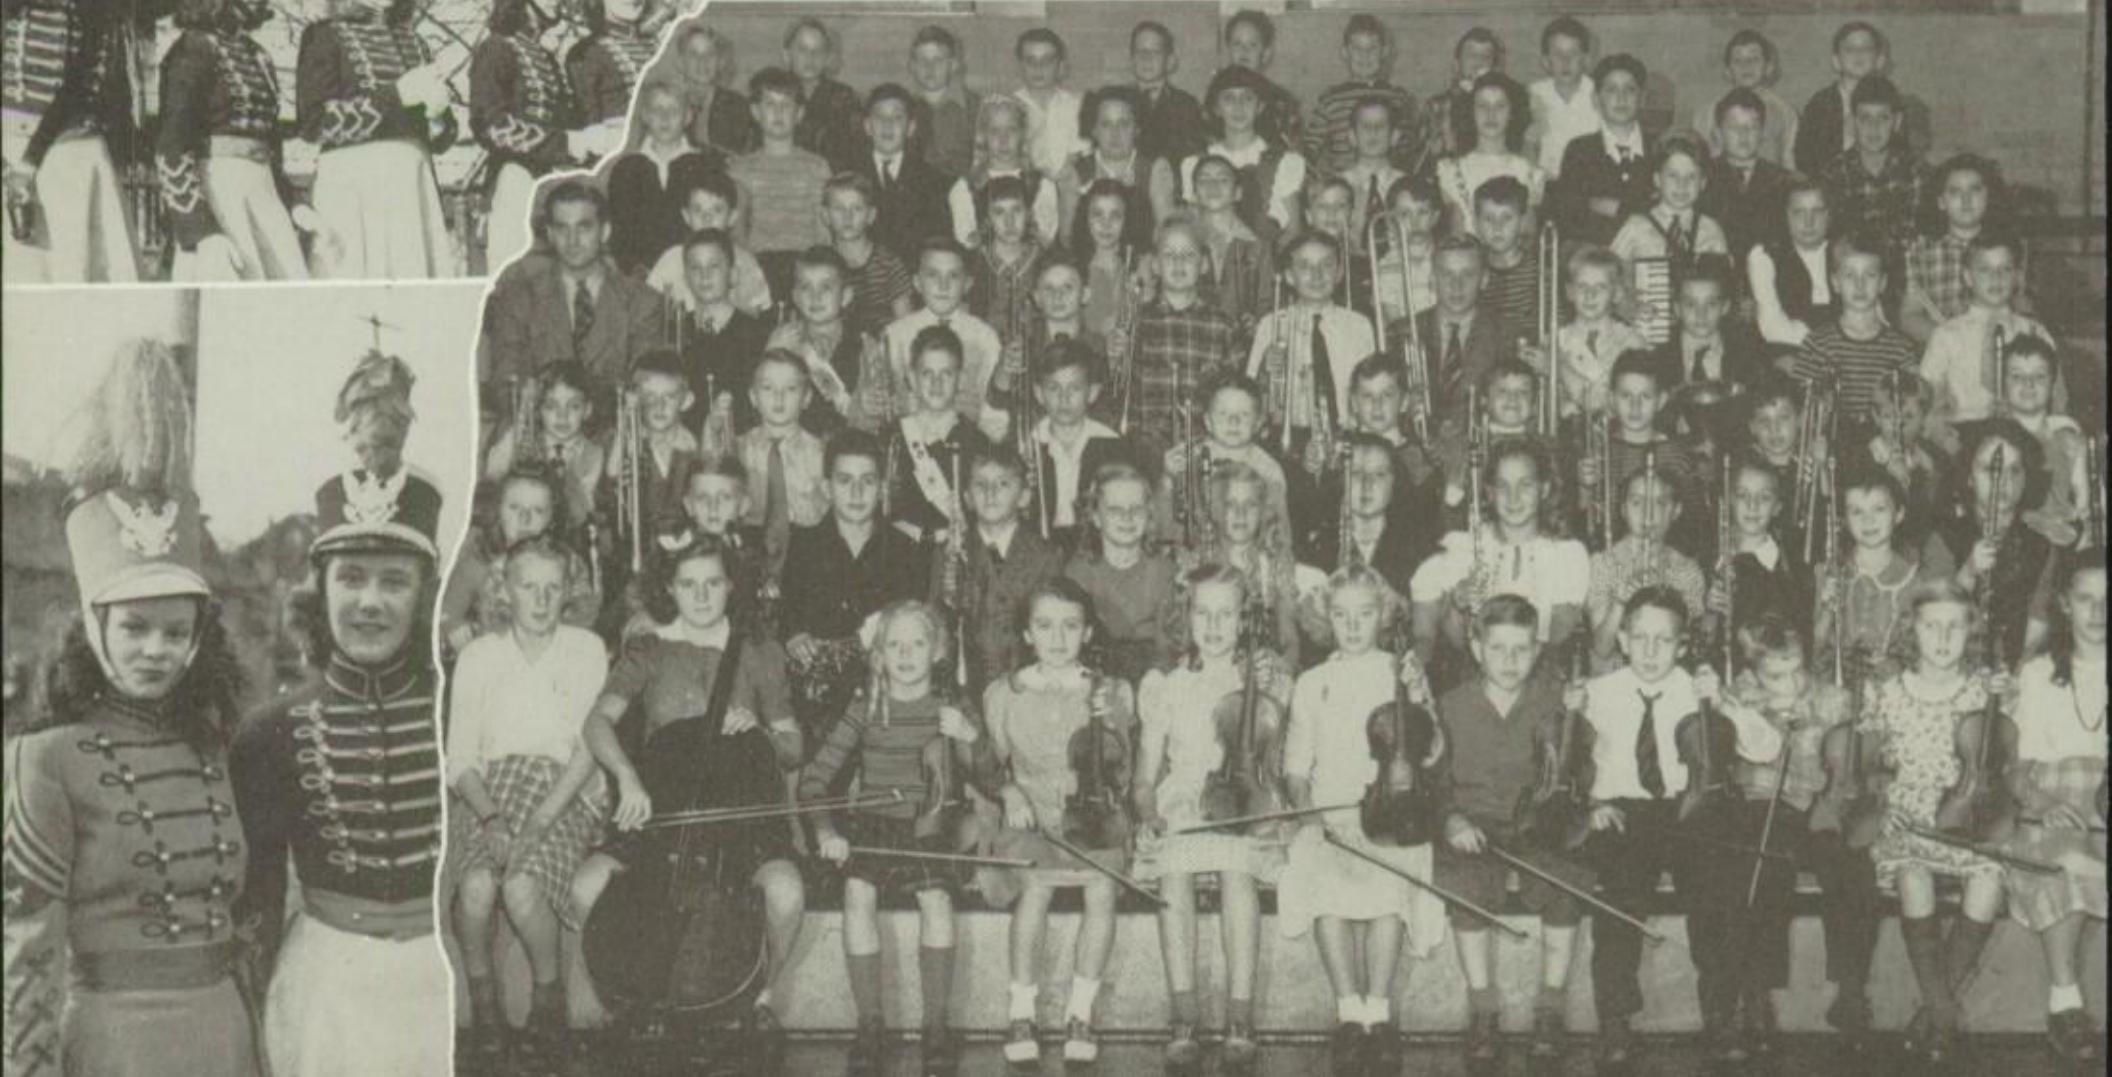

Having satisfied all these requirements the students pictured on this page have been deemed worthy of election to this international organization. All are graduating seniors.

OUR BANDS

Famous for its martial music is the U. S. Army Band. You would have to go far to beat its precision timing. You would have had to have gone far, also, to have surpassed Glen-Nor's instrumental organizations this year.

Whether it was practicing at eight in the morning or playing for a night game; whether it was entertaining at a PTA meeting or participating at a routine assembly program—cooperation was the word. Such a splendid attitude of necessity won acclaim for Glen-Nor. More power to the members of the Band, the Orchestra, the Color Guard, and the Majorettes! Sincere gratitude, too, to Mr. Marlin O'Neal, their very capable leader!

MAJORETTES

D. Thompson, E. Taylor, P. Raibley, D. Zelinski, P. Patton.

A public relations department necessary in warfare? Very definitely! Other nations must fear us for our powerful strength; money must be raised to carry on the conflict.

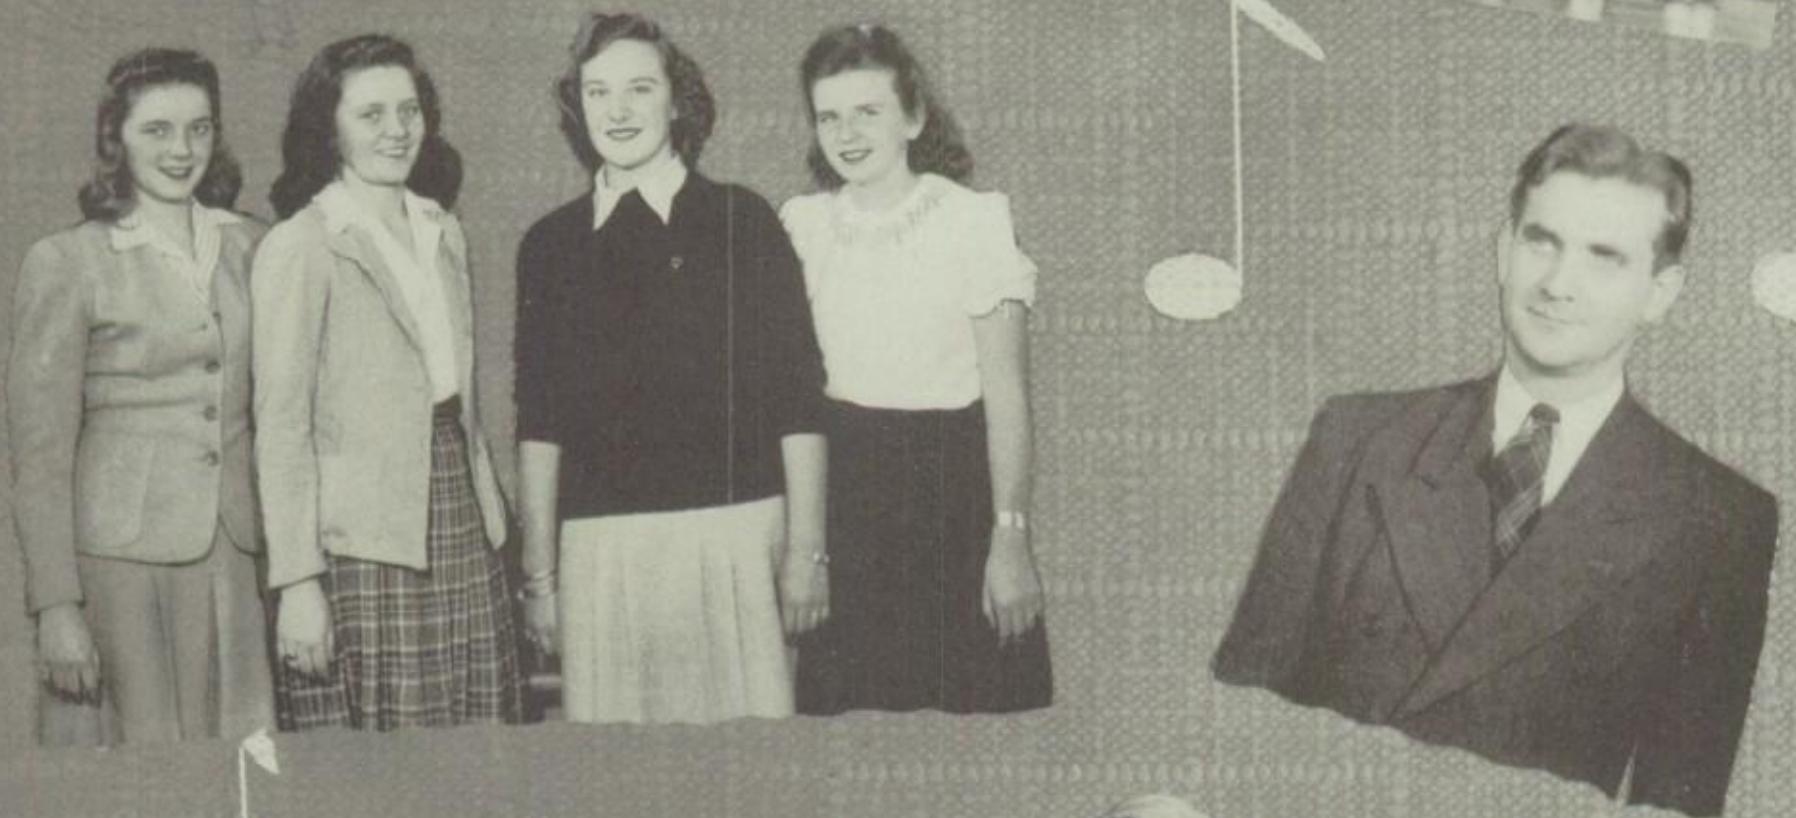

A public relations department can carry out this twofold purpose very effectively by the giving out of the proper information and the release of pertinent pictures of the fighting forces.

It is Glen-Nor's Glee Club and Swing Band, under the direction of Mr. M. O'Neal, which serve as good advertising agents for the school. They publicize, through the annual Spring Concert and through playing at various dances, the talents of Glen-Nor students and what is being done to develop them. So far, they've been doing a grand job. May they keep it up!

ATHLETICS

When the action died down after another hectic sports year, only one Glen-Nor team stood amidst the rising smoke of battle. This was our flashy maroon and gold quintet that walked off with the 1946 Kiwanis Basketball Championship by defeating Upper Darby, 37-36, in the finals.

The Assell, Spencer, Renz, Keown and Irwin combination finally hit their stride as they entered the Kiwanis tourney on March 3rd. By March 9th they had collected four scalps to take home another basketball championship. This makes the third straight year that the Indians have come up with a championship team.

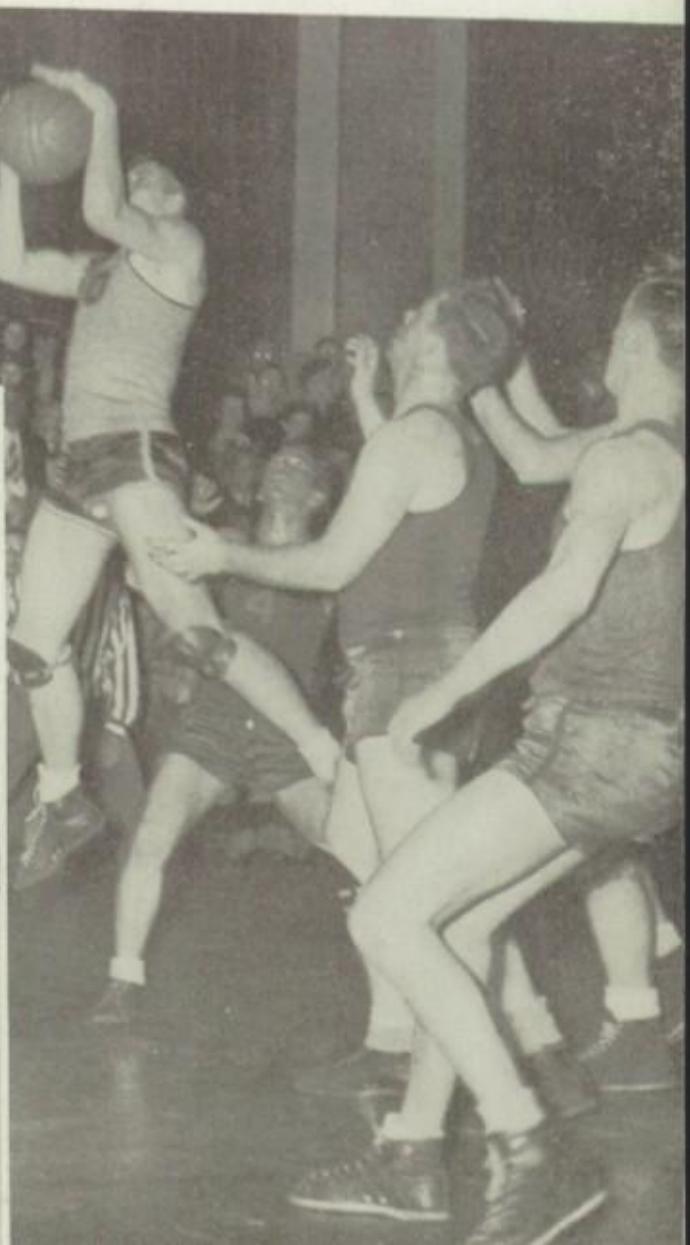

The action on the football front this season, however, was not very bright. Only two games were won, both by the score of 2-0.

Looking at the girls' side of the sports parade, we see that the lassies had their ups and downs also. On the hockey field the girls came through with a record of 3 wins, 3 losses and 2 ties. But on the basketball court their record shows only 4 wins against 5 losses. In spite of the overall picture, the gals did put on some fine exhibitions of basketball. Who will ever forget the Eddystone game which they won 19-18?

Americans may be beaten, but their spirit can never be stopped. So runs a great tribute to the American fighting men of World War II. So might run the same tribute to the American boys on the gridiron, Glen-Nor's team being no exception.

With only four returning lettermen, Coach Thompson had a difficult job building a team to keep pace with last year's record. The efficiency of the team was held to a minimum throughout the season because of injuries, bad breaks, and the loss of key players such as Brooks and Rodier.

Opening the season with a powerful Sharon Hill team, the Indians suffered their worst defeat to the tune of 32-6. In the early minutes of the game, Don Hornberger, scrappy quarterback, suffered a sprained ankle and was helped from the field. Ernie Lord's rugged defense work and George Rodier's nice runs were outstanding.

Next on the list was Eddystone. Here, the Indians bounced back and beat the "Stoners" 2-0 when a blocked kick by Gene Irwin rolled into the end zone. A gallant goal line stance near the end of the game saved the day when the Glen-Nor line held the "Stoners" for four downs.

After this win, the Indians suffered four defeats in a row by Penn Charter, Prospect Park, Swarthmore and Collingdale.

In our next game with Clifton Heights the Indians came roaring back in the last half to tie it at 6-6. Johnny Forbes and Porky Renz sparked the running attack and Gene Irwin and Dave McDowell were standouts in the line as Glen-Nor held the "Rams" three times inside their ten-yard stripe.

On Turkey Day the Indians journeyed to Yeadon, where a blocked kick by Dave McDowell won the annual clash 2-0.

The season ended on a muddy field with the Indians on the short end of a 26-11 score. A third quarter rush by the Township Raiders cinched the game as they pushed across three touchdowns. A blocked kick by Bud McWilliams and a tackle by Dave McDowell in the end zone were responsible for the two safeties. Later in the last quarter Don Hornberger scored standing up on a beautiful 15-yard run. Johnny Forbes ripped through the center for the extra point.

Morale! During the war, the U.S.O. clubs at home and abroad took care of that. Entertainers like Frances Langford and Bob Hope took the minds of our servicemen from the gore about them more than any other group.

In Glen-Nor, a dozen cheerleaders were in charge of morale uplifting. Whether cheering the football team or leading a rousing pep rally, they heightened school spirit considerably.

Sponsors Mrs. Ethel Richards and Miss Agnes Stegmuller with co-captains Dorothy Reddington and Doris Stegmuller acted as chairmen and kept things running smoothly.

As the women of the nation banded together in various branches of service to help the war effort—so the girls of Glen-Nor answered the call of Coaches Wright and Stegmuller to make our school have a winning hockey team.

Under the captaincy of Jean Teetsel the varsity came through winning three, tying two, and losing three. Jean Price took the honor of being high scored.

The J.V. made out just as well under Captain Betty Ann Reddington. Scoring laurels went to Marguerite Spencer.

BASKETBALL

INDIANS EDGE ROYALS, 37-36; NEW CHAMPS. This was the headline that appeared in the Chester Times after a flashy Glen-Nor quintet defeated a highly favored Upper Darby team in the finals to walk off with the 1946 Kiwanis Championship.

What a game! The score was tied eleven times and the lead changed hands eight times before Warren Spencer stepped to the foul line and sank what proved to be the game winning point.

For the third straight year Coach George Knoll turned out a championship team. Although ending up in third place in Section Four with 5 wins and 5 losses, the Indians roared into the Kiwanis tourney hungry for the title and kept on roaring straight through Upper Chichester, Collingdale, Eddystone and Upper Darby to become the new champs.

Paced by "Porky" Renz, who scored 55 points in the tourney to take high scoring honors and a berth on the All-Kiwanis team, the Indians ended a successful season with 11 wins and 11 losses.

High scorers for the season were "Porky" Renz, with 211 points; Warren Spencer, with 121 points; and Roy Assell, with 107 points.

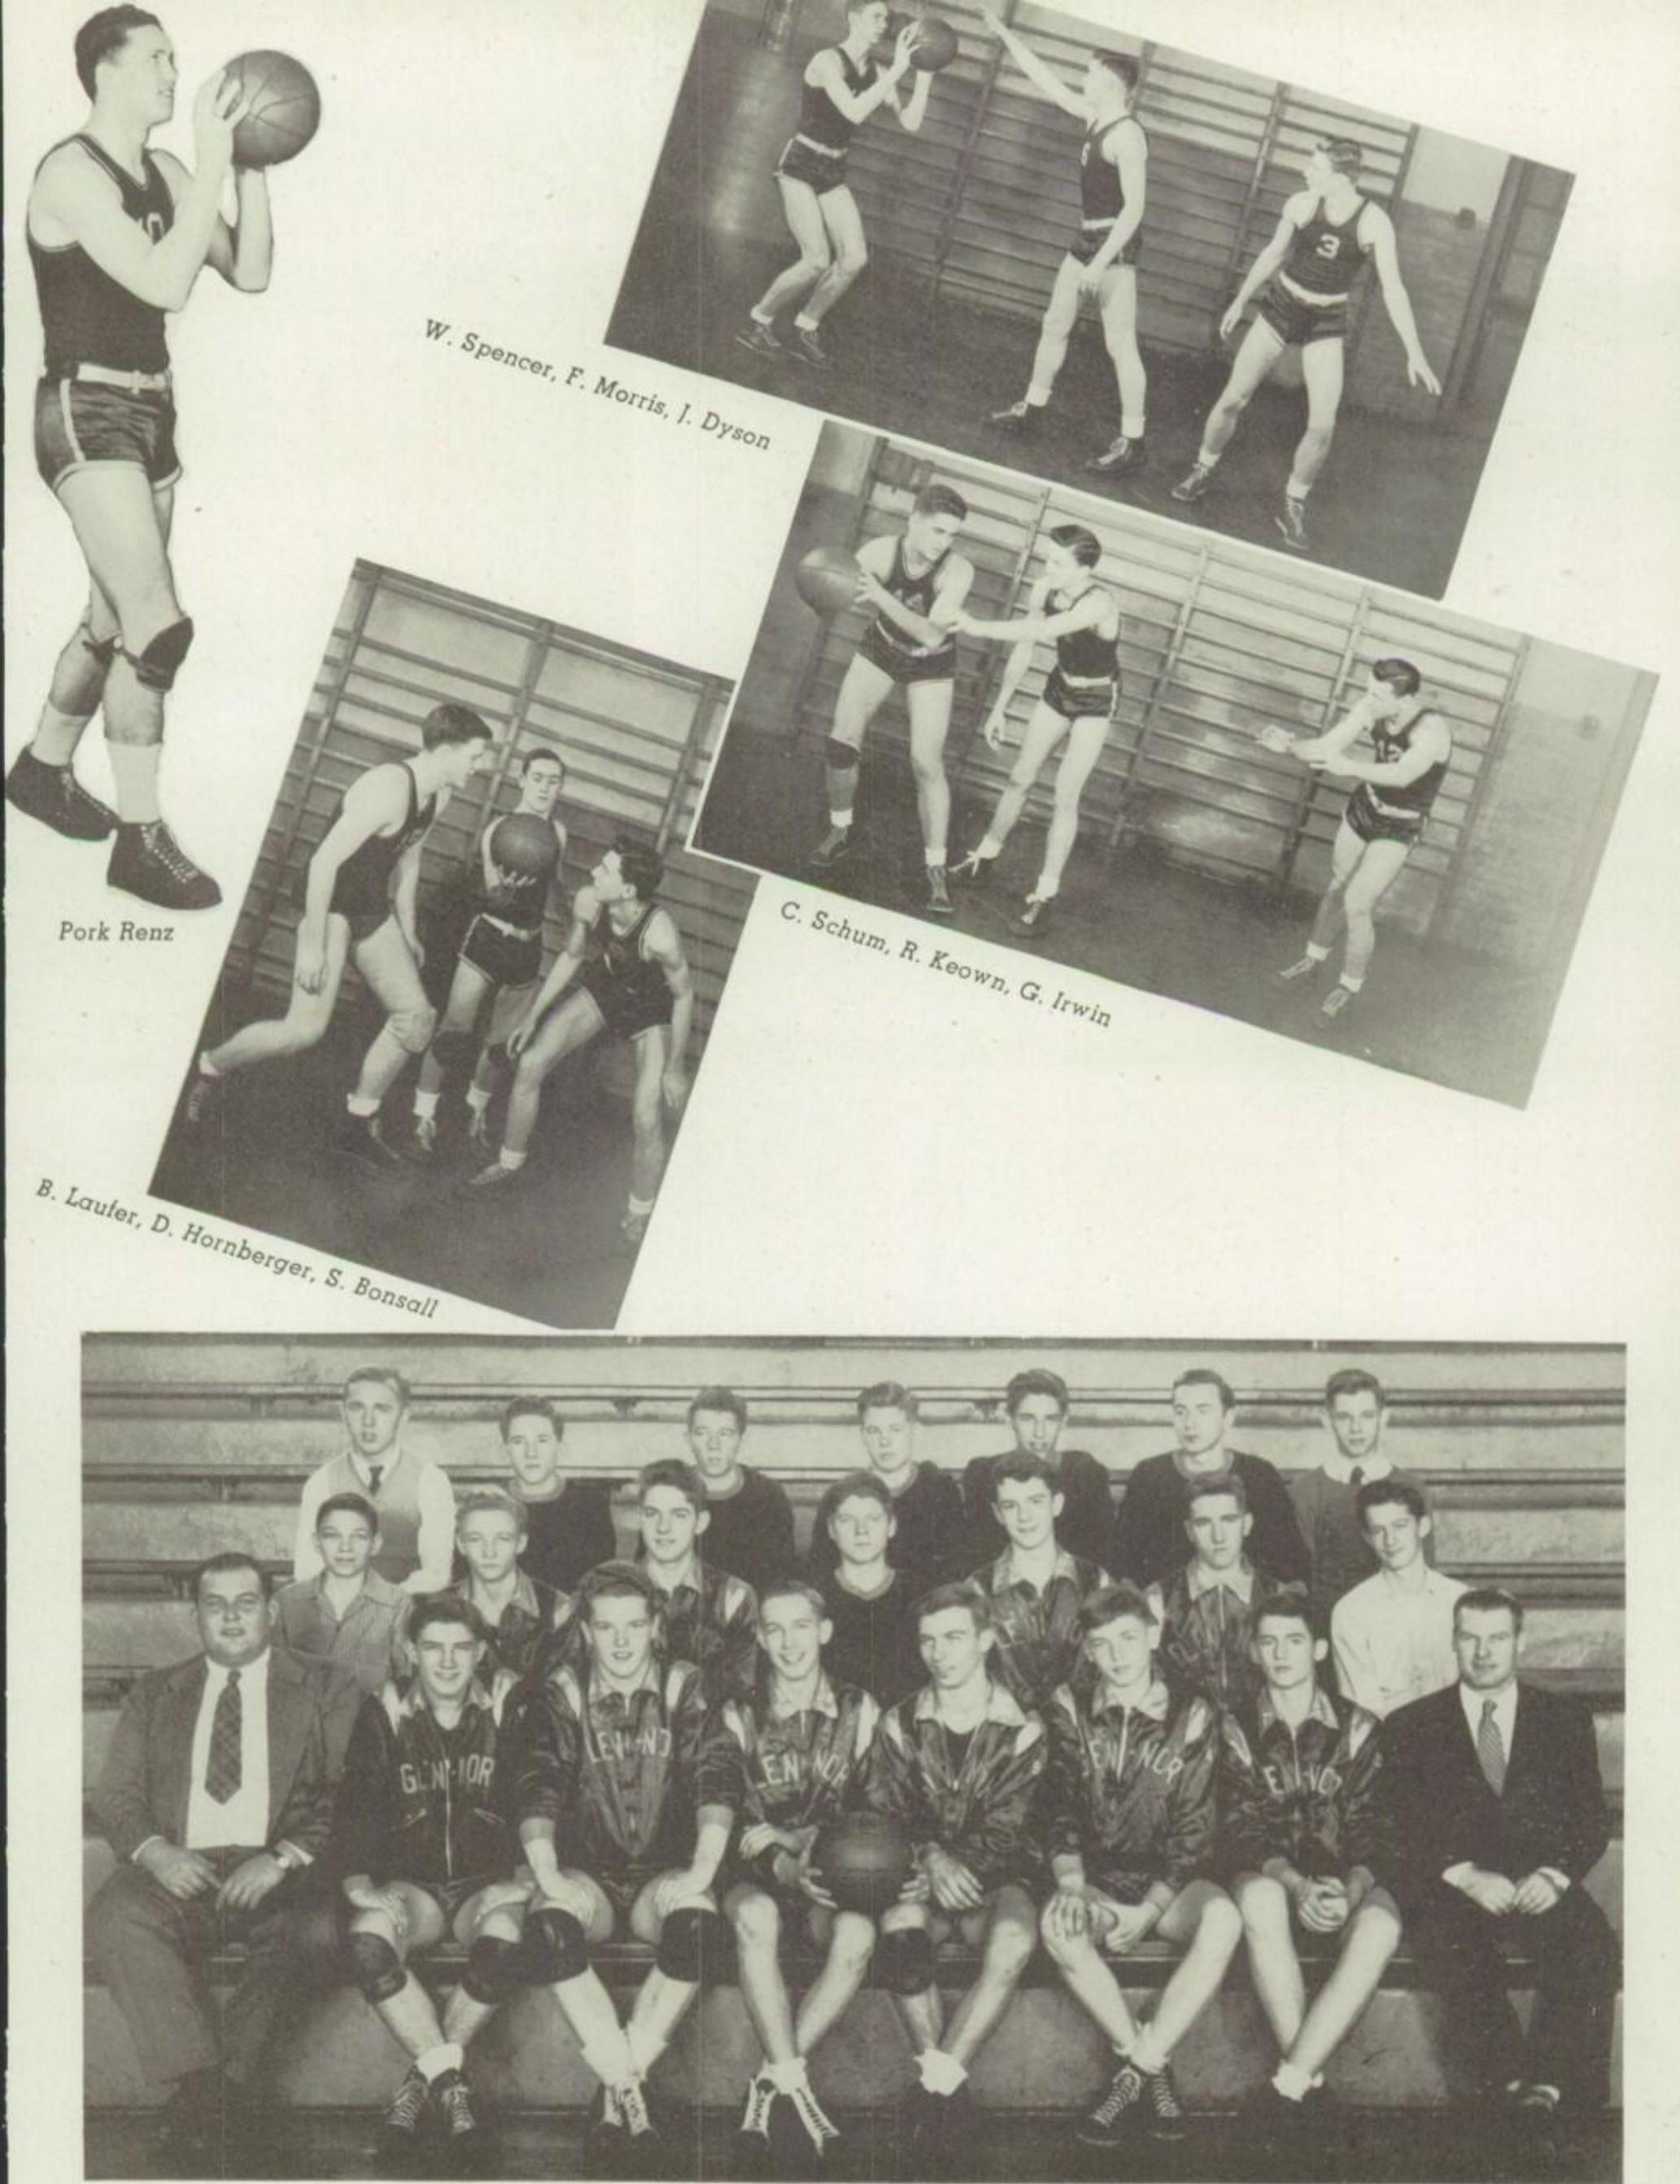

The Junior Varsity completed an excellent season by winning thirteen games and losing only four. The team, led by Johnny Forbes with 118 points and Tommy Hamilton with 98 points, handed in one sterling performance after another to end up in first place in Section Four.

BOYS VS GIRLS

Boys in hockey tunics, girls in football jerseys—that's how the game was played this year. The score was 3-2 and believe it or not in favor of the boys! This is something the girls' hockey squad won't forget in a long time—being beaten by the football team in their own game. Wonder if girls could play football who would win? Your guess is as good as ours.

GLEN-NOR TAKES TO THE DIAMOND

This year marks the first baseball season since the end of the war. Coach Fricker is hoping it will be a victorious one for Glen-Nor.

At early practices Renz, Irwin, Morris, Dyson, Hornberger, Peifer and McDowell have been singled out as probable starters in the line-up. Chief worries this year will be finding pitchers and a first baseman.

There are rumors floating around that there will be improvements in the playing field and maybe new uniforms—well, here's hoping!

JUNIOR HIGH FOOTBALL AND HOCKEY

Something new has been added around school lately. Yes, we mean the junior high football and hockey teams.

Under the leadership of Mr. Geno and Miss Stegmuller a football and a hockey team were organized. The junior high football team was one of the year's biggest surprises with 3 wins, 1 tie and 1 lose. They rolled up a total of 99 points to their opponents' 19. The junior high hockey team played but one game and were on the short end of a 2-1 score.

Underclassmen

We look into the future—the future to which our friends and relatives are coming home from service. We see luxurious streamlining of transportation, perfected television sets for private use, healthful modernistic construction of tomorrow's houses, more widespread use of nylon and plastic, and the extraordinary findings of science such as the fireproofing of fabric through the use of ammonium sulphamate. Yes, indeed, it would certainly seem as if the world the boys are coming home to will be more marvelous than ever!

The armies of World War II had their valiant squadrons. Glen-Nor has its up and coming classes. Just as America's servicemen and women performed proudly under all circumstances so are Squadrons 1947, 1948, and 1949 striving to achieve the highest standards attainable in the classroom, on the athletic field and in the social world.

Doing an admirable job of working together for the efficiency of the group, Squadron '47 is looking forward to next year when it hopes to surpass all previous records.
